

Alison Jackson Fake Take Front Row

Following the furore around designers paying celebrities to sit on their front row during Fashion Week, notorious satirist Alison Jackson has taken on the cult of celebrity once more.

British designer Philip Colbert employed the spoof photographer to capture his latest designs with images of Katy Perry, Sir Elton John and The Queen apparently sitting side by side admiring The Rodnik Band's collection, 'Pop Till You Drop'.

Report by Flora Hughes-Onslow

September 26, 2012 Comments \(0\) | TrackBack \(0\) | Permalink

Written by Katie.nicholl@mailonsunday.co.uk