Kim Kardashian and Kanye West's baby is possibly Planet Earth's most famous tot of the moment. And while members of their family have spoken out since the early birth of baby North West, neither Kim or Kanye have given away what their new family life is like behind closed doors - UNTIL NOW!

We've managed to get hold of the first pictures of the latest addition to the reality television's royal family and even some behind the scenes pictures from the delivery room.

Alright, so that may not be completely true but we have got some visual delights showing what might be happening in the Kalifornian Kardashian Kompond right now.

Artist Alison Jackson has set up some rather entertaining situations with a pair of Kimye lookalikes and has released them for our beautiful entertainment.

In the pictures, fake Kim is seen eating junk food and dipping it in tomato ketchup and mustard spread across her baby bump before being filmed giving birth in the delivery room.

There are also pictures of a rap-alike of Kanye doing his daddy duties - feeding the little sprog and easing it into its love of music by putting a pair of earphones over its head.

The fake family is even seen half naked and resting together on their bed and taking a bath together as a trio.

And while we're sorry we couldn't bring you the first official pictures yet, we're not sorry that we can present you with this excellent gallery of snaps for you to browse.
