This home-style video appears to show the shocking moment Prince William films up wife Kate's skirt during the Queen's 90th birthday bash.

But do a double take and you'll see that not everything is as it seems as the footage is actually a spoof created to show how the royal family might be celebrating this landmark occasion.

The video, shot from Prince William's perspective, was created by BAFTA award-winning celebrity artist, Alison Jackson.

It sees the monarch starting her 90th birthday celebrations early with a trip to her local Toby Carvery to indulge in a roast dinner with the rest of the family.

After roast dinners all round, the Queen is presented with a celebration cake complete with a '90' candle and a card.

Finally, Her Royal Highness opens presents including a very British corgi cushion.

To celebrate the Queen's birthday, Toby Carvery restaurants nationwide are offering anyone who shares her special day a free roast dinner on theirs.

Those born on 21st April can enjoy a free birthday roast by simply taking a form of identification to their local Toby Carvery on Thursday.
